Other Events and Required Regulation FD Disclosure.

Our corporate income tax returns are routinely examined by the Internal Revenue Service ("IRS") and other taxing authorities. Based on specific facts and circumstances, from time to time management establishes reserves to cover certain tax related contingencies including contingencies resulting from questions raised by the taxing authorities during the course of an examination. On June 29, 2004 the IRS notified us that its examination of our 1997 to 1999 U.S. tax returns is complete and its adjustments are final. As a result, the Company reversed previously accrued income tax reserves that had been established to cover tax related contingencies in the years 1997 to 1999. This reversal will decrease income tax expense and increase net earnings for our second quarter ended July 31, 2004 by $200 million.
