Risk Factor Update
uncertainties that affect our busin	a Form 10-K for the year ended December 31, 2009 sets forth information relating to the material risks and ness and common stock. In addition to those risk factors, we believe the following risk factor is also relevant to financial condition and results of operations.
Changes in accounting standard	ls could have a material impact on our financial statements.
the financial accounting and repo	Accounting Standards Board (FASB), the Securities and Exchange Commission, and other regulators change orting standards governing the preparation of our financial statements. In some cases, we could be required to retroactively, resulting in our restating prior period financial statements. These changes are difficult to predict re record and report our financial condition and results of operations and other financial data, even in instances

For example, FASB updated the accounting standard related to the consolidation of variable interest entities that requires certain variable interest entities to be consolidated, effective January 1, 2010. We are in the process of evaluating whether any of the collateralized debt obligations we manage will be required to be so consolidated and the impact such consolidation would have on our balance sheet and results of operations. See Future Adoption of New Accounting Standards Consolidation of Variable Interest Entities in Note 3 to the Consolidated Financial Statements set forth in our Annual Report on Form 10-K for the year ended December 31, 2009, which portion is incorporated herein by reference. Further revisions to this standard may have an additional impact on us, which cannot be predicted at this time.

where they may not have an economic impact on our business.
