PART III - NARRATIVE

State below in reasonable detail the reasons why Form 10-K, 11-K, 20-F, 10-Q, N-SAR, N-CSR, or the transition report or portion thereof, could not be filed within the prescribed period. (Attach extra sheets if needed.)

The previously filed financial statements of NovaMed, Inc. (the "Company") for the fiscal years ended December 31, 2002 through December 31, 2004 were audited by the Company's former independent registered public accounting firm, PriceWaterhouseCoopers LLP ("PwC"). On April 12, 2005, the Company appointed BDO Seidman, LLP ("BDO") as its independent registered public accounting firm and, accordingly, BDO's audit of the Company's financial statements for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2005 is the first time that BDO has conducted an audit of the Company's financial statements.

During recent days and in connection with the late stages of BDO's audit, BDO and the Company commenced a dialogue and analysis as to whether certain accounting errors had occurred in the Company's previously filed financial statements for the fiscal years ended December 31, 2002 through December 31, 2004 and for the first three quarters of fiscal 2005. Specifically, BDO, the Company and now PwC, through discussions with the Company, are considering whether errors in such financial statements had occurred as a result of a possible erroneous application of generally accepted accounting principles relating to certain written options (the "ASC Options") granted by the Company to several physicians. The terms of the ASC Options provided these physicians with the right to acquire equity interests from the Company in specified ambulatory surgery centers in which the Company has an ownership interest.

The potential errors in the Company's financial statements relate to the Company recording the purchase price paid to buy out the ASC Options as goodwill in its financial statements. BDO, the Company and PwC, through discussions with the Company, are considering whether the ASC Options should have instead been considered derivatives and consequently, because of their specific terms and characteristics, recorded as liabilities at their fair value at the time of issuance. If determined to be derivatives, the ASC Options would then need to be adjusted to fair value at each subsequent reporting date after issuance and the specific adjustments to fair value would need to be recorded as expenses in each reporting period.

The Company, BDO and PwC are presently engaged in a continuing dialogue and analysis regarding these potential financial statement errors. If as a result of these discussions and analysis the Company determines that its historical accounting treatment of the ASC Options was erroneous, the Company believes it would likely have to restate its previously filed financial statements for the fiscal years ended December 31, 2002 through December 31, 2004 and for the first three quarters of 2005 in order to correct these errors.

Edgar Filing: NOVAMED INC - Form NT 10-K

The Company currently estimates that, if it ultimately determines that the possible restatements are necessary, the impact of the restatements would be as follows:

- o The Company's expenses would be increased by approximately $3.5 million to $4.0 million in the aggregate over the fiscal years ended December 31, 2002 through December 31, 2004. In this regard, expenses on the Company's consolidated statements of operations would be increased by approximately $50,000 to $150,000 in 2002, $1.5 million to $1.7 million in 2003, and $1.8 million to $2.3 million in 2004. Liabilities on the Company's consolidated balance sheets at each of December 31, 2002, 2003 and 2004 would be increased by the same amounts.
- o Goodwill on the Company's consolidated balance sheets would be reduced by approximately $3.5 million to $4.0 million at December 31, 2005.

The impact of this potential restatement on the Company's financial statements for the twelve months ended December 31, 2005 would likely be limited to adjustments to the Company's balance sheet. The Company does not currently anticipate any impact on its statement of operations or statement of cash flows for the twelve months ended December 31, 2005. Therefore, the previously reported diluted earnings per share of $0.23 for the twelve months ended December 31, 2005 would not likely be affected by this potential restatement. Moreover, the ASC Options that have triggered this analysis and potential restatement no longer exist so they would have no further impact on our future results of operations.

As stated above, the Company has not completed its analysis as to whether its historical accounting treatment of the ASC Options was erroneous, and if it was, as to the actual restatement adjustments that would be necessary. If the Company determines that a restatement relating to the foregoing possible accounting errors is necessary, the actual restatement adjustment amounts would be subject to final determination by the Company and audit by BDO and PwC.

As a result of the ongoing process described above, the Company will be unable to file its Annual Report on Form 10-K for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2005 by March 16, 2006 without unreasonable effort or expense. The Company anticipates that it will be able to file its Form 10-K on or before March 31, 2006, although there is no assurance that it will be able to do so.
