Announcement
Profit Forecast for Year 2006

The Board wishes to announce that, based on preliminary calculations in accordance with the PRC Accounting Standards the Company is expected to record a net profit for the year ended December 31, 2006 as compared with the loss of the Company recorded under the PRC Accounting Standards for the same period of year 2005.

As the Company is publishing a similar announcement in the People's Republic of China pursuant to the relevant provisions of the Shanghai Stock Exchange, the Company, pursuant to the requirements of Rule 13.09 of the Rules Governing the Listing of Securities on The Stock Exchange of Hong Kong Limited, is simultaneously also publishing this announcement in Hong Kong.

As China's economy continued to grow at a steady pace in 2006, China Southern Airlines Company Limited (the "Company") improved its production and business operation. Although its operating costs were under considerable pressure to rise as a result of the steady increase in the prices of aviation fuel, the Company managed to achieve satisfactory performance. The Company also benefited from the revaluation of Renminbi against US dollar and other foreign currencies. Based on a preliminary review of the operational and financial information of the Company, the management expects to record a net profit for the year ended December 31, 2006 as compared with the loss of the Company recorded under the PRC Accounting Standards for the same period of year 2005. Full details of the operational and financial information of the Company will be disclosed in the 2006 annual report of the Company. Shareholders of the Company and the public investors are cautioned not to place undue reliance on this estimate and beware of investment risks.

Due to various uncertainties regarding its operating environment, the Company did not make a forecast of its earnings in the third quarter 2006 report of the Company.
