Repsol YPF S.A., with legal address in Paseo de la Castellana 278, 28046 Madrid, España

In the same meeting, the Board of Directors decided to propose to the Shareholders Meeting the distribution of a dividend of $6 (Argentine pesos) per share and the creation of a reserve amounting of 2,710.3 million Argentine pesos for the distribution of future dividends, taking in consideration of the evolution of the Argentine financial and economical situation at the time of the Ordinary Annual Shareholders Meeting, which is scheduled to be held on April 28, 2006.

The Board of Directors also approved credit facilities to YPF Holdings (USA) for up to 100 million of dollars and Repsol YPF Brazil for up to 450 million of dollars. The interest rate to be applied will be based on the LIBOR plus a spread according to its risk.

In December 2005 the company has estimated a downward revision of 509 million barrels of oil equivalent (boe) in the oil and gas reserves in Argentina. The most significant downward revision was in the gas reserves of the Loma de la Lata field because the decline in pressure observed for this field in the last two years indicated that, a portion of the initial gas in place (IGIP) could not be recoverable with reasonable certainty under present technical, economic and operating conditions.

The financial statements include all the significant effects known till its approval date. The implementation effects about the Committee recommendations are going to be analyzed by de Board of Directors as soon as they are being notified about them.

This presentation contains forward-looking statements that are subject to risk factors associated with the oil, gas, power, chemicals and renewable businesses. It is believed that the expectations reflected in these statements are reasonable, but may be affected by a variety of variables which could cause actual results or trends to differ materially, including, but not limited to: price fluctuations, actual demand, currency fluctuations, drilling and production results, reserve estimates, loss of market, industry competition, environmental risks, physical risks, the risks of doing business in developing countries, legislative, fiscal and regulatory developments including potential litigation and regulatory effects arising from recategorization of reserves, economic and financial market conditions in various countries and regions, political risks, project delay or advancement, approvals and cost estimates. For a further discussion of the factors that could affect our future results, see Risk Factors in the company's Annual Report on Form 20-F for the year ended December 31st, 2004 on file with the US Securities Exchange Commission. In particular, this announcement also contains statements regarding revisions to previous estimates of the proved oil and gas reserves of YPF and the estimated financial impact of these revisions. These revisions are being made in connection with the estimation of proved reserves at December 31, 2005. In addition, the audit committee of Repsol YPF is conducting an independent review of the circumstances regarding these revisions. The estimation of proved reserves involves complex judgments, including judgments about expected economic, technical and other operating conditions, and are subject to a variety of factors, many of which are beyond YPF's control. These factors include but are not limited to changes in oil and gas prices, geological and operating data derived from exploration and production activities, technological developments, budgeting, investment and other financial decisions that we and other oil and gas companies may make, political events generally, changes in the applicable political, legal, regulatory and tax environments in which we operate, environmental risks, project delay or advancement, and technical factors associated with the exploration and production of hydrocarbons. In addition, the statements contained in this announcement or prior dates may be revised in light of the results of the independent review being conducted by the audit committee. Cautionary Note to US Investors: The United States Securities and Exchange Commission permits oil and gas companies, in their filings with the SEC, to disclose only proved reserves that a company has demonstrated by actual production or conclusive formation tests to be economically and legally producible under existing economic and operating conditions.

Sincerely yours,

by YPF S.A.
