CERTAIN FEDERAL INCOME TAX CONSEQUENCES

The following discussion summarizes certain federal income tax consequences of the receipt of Verizon common stock and cash pursuant to the MCI Bankruptcy Plan by certain holders of claims. The following summary is based on the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended, or the Code, Treasury Regulations promulgated thereunder, judicial decisions, and published administrative rules and pronouncements of the Internal Revenue Service, or the IRS, as in effect on the date hereof. Changes in these rules or new interpretations thereof may have retroactive effect and could significantly affect the federal income tax consequences described below.

The federal income tax consequences of the MCI Bankruptcy Plan are complex and are subject to significant uncertainties. Verizon has not requested a ruling from the IRS or an opinion of counsel with respect to any of the tax aspects of the MCI Bankruptcy Plan. Thus, no assurance can be given as to the interpretation that the IRS will adopt. In addition, this summary does not address foreign, state, or local tax consequences of the MCI Bankruptcy Plan, nor does it purport to address the federal income tax consequences of the MCI Bankruptcy Plan to special classes of taxpayers (such as foreign taxpayers, broker dealers, banks, mutual funds, insurance companies, financial institutions, small business investment companies, regulated investment companies, tax exempt organizations, and investors in pass through entities).

Accordingly, the following summary of certain federal income tax consequences is for informational purposes only and is not a substitute for careful tax planning and advice based upon the individual circumstances pertaining to a holder of a claim. All holders of claims are urged to consult their own tax advisors for the federal, state, local and other tax consequences applicable under the MCI Bankruptcy Plan. In addition, holders of claims are urged to review the Debtor's Disclosure Statement Pursuant to Section 1145 of the Bankruptcy Code dated May 23, 2003.

Pursuant to and in accordance with the MCI Bankruptcy Plan and the Bankruptcy Court Order, certain claimants will receive Verizon common stock and cash in satisfaction of all or a portion of their claims. The federal income tax consequences of the MCI Bankruptcy Plan to these claimants may depend, in part, on whether the claimant's claims constitute securities for federal income tax purposes. The term security is not defined in the Code or in the Treasury Regulations issued thereunder and has not been clearly defined by judicial decisions. The determination of whether a particular claim constitutes a security depends on an overall evaluation of the nature of the original debt. Each claimant is urged to consult its own tax advisor regarding the status of its claim, or any portion thereof, as securities for federal income tax purposes.

Consequences to Holders of Claims that are not Securities

The receipt of Verizon common stock and cash in satisfaction of certain claims that do not constitute securities will generally be a fully taxable transaction. In general, claimants will recognize gain or loss in an amount equal to the difference between (i) the sum of the fair market value of any Verizon common stock and the amount of any cash received in satisfaction of the claim (other than any claim for accrued but unpaid interest) and (ii) the claimant's adjusted tax basis in its claim (other than any claim for accrued but unpaid interest). Where gain or loss is recognized by a holder, the character of such gain or loss as long term or short term capital gain or loss or as ordinary income or loss will be determined by a number of factors, including the tax status of the holder, whether the claim constitutes a capital asset in the hands of the holder and how long it has been held, whether the claim was acquired at a market discount, and whether and to what extent the holder had previously claimed a bad debt deduction. A holder who purchased its claim from a prior holder at a market discount may be subject to the market discount rules of the Code. Under those rules, assuming that the holder has made no election to amortize the market discount into income on a current basis with respect to any market discount instrument, any gain recognized on the exchange of its claim (subject to a de minimis rule) generally would be characterized as ordinary income to the extent of the accrued market discount on the claim as of the date of the exchange.

Table of Contents

A claimant's tax basis in any Verizon common stock received generally will equal the fair market value of this stock. The holding period for any Verizon common stock generally will begin the day following the issuance of this stock. For a discussion of the tax consequences of amounts received in respect of accrued interest, see Distributions in Respect of Accrued Interest below.

Consequences to Holders of Claims that are Securities

The treatment of any holder of a claim that constitutes a security for federal income tax purposes and that has not previously received MCI common stock in satisfaction of that claim pursuant to the MCI Bankruptcy Plan is unclear. Each holder with a claim that is a security is urged to consult its own tax advisor with respect to the tax consequences of its receipt of Verizon common stock and cash pursuant to the MCI Bankruptcy Plan.

Distributions in Respect of Accrued Interest

In general, to the extent that any distribution to a claimant is received in satisfaction of accrued interest or amortized original issue discount, or OID, during its holding period, the amount will be taxable to the claimant as interest income (if not previously included in the claimant's gross income). Conversely, a claimant generally recognizes a deductible loss to the extent any accrued interest claimed or amortized OID was previously included in its gross income and is not paid in full. However, it is unclear whether a claimant with previously included OID that is not paid in full would be required to recognize a capital loss rather than an ordinary loss.

Pursuant to the MCI Bankruptcy Plan, all distributions in respect of any claim will be allocated first to the principal amount of the claim, as determined for federal income tax purposes, and thereafter, to the remaining portion of the claim, if any. However, there is no assurance that this allocation would be respected by the IRS for federal income tax purposes. Each claimant is urged to consult its tax advisor regarding the allocation of consideration and the deductibility of unpaid interest for tax purposes.

Subsequent Sale of Verizon Common Stock

Any gain recognized by a claimant upon a subsequent taxable disposition of Verizon common stock received in satisfaction of a claim directly against MCI or certain subsidiaries of MCI pursuant to the MCI Bankruptcy Plan (or any stock or property received for it in a later tax free exchange) will likely be treated as ordinary income to the extent of (i) any bad debt deductions (or additions to a bad debt reserve) claimed with respect to its claim and any ordinary loss deductions incurred upon satisfaction of its claim, less any income (other than interest income) recognized by the claimant upon satisfaction of its claim, and (ii) with respect to a cash basis claimant, any amount that would have been included in its gross income if the claimant's claim had been satisfied in full but that was not included by reason of the cash method of accounting. To the extent that a claimant recognizes gain that is not treated as ordinary income pursuant to the preceding sentence, or recognizes loss, on a subsequent disposition of Verizon common stock, the character of this gain or loss as long term or short term capital gain or loss or as ordinary income or loss will be determined by a number of factors, including the tax status of the claimant, whether the claim constitutes a capital asset in the hands of the claimant and how long it has been held.

Backup Withholding

All distributions to claimants under the MCI Bankruptcy Plan are subject to any applicable withholding (including employment tax withholding). Under federal income tax law, interest, dividends, and other reportable payments may, under certain circumstances, be subject to backup withholding at the then applicable rate (currently 28%). Backup withholding generally applies if the claimant (i) fails to furnish its social security number or other taxpayer identification number, or TIN, (ii) furnishes an incorrect TIN, (iii) fails properly to report interest or dividends, or (iv) under certain circumstances, fails to provide a certified statement, signed under penalty of perjury, that the TIN provided is its correct number and that it is a United States person that is not subject to backup withholding. Backup withholding is not an additional tax but merely an advance payment, which may be refunded to the extent it results in an overpayment of tax. Certain persons are exempt from backup withholding, including, in certain circumstances, corporations and financial institutions.

The foregoing summary has been provided for informational purposes only. All claimants are urged to consult their tax advisors concerning the federal, state, local and other tax consequences applicable under the MCI Bankruptcy Plan.

USE OF PROCEEDS

We will not receive any cash proceeds from these offerings.

As permitted by the Delaware General Corporation Law, Verizon's restated certificate of incorporation provides that Verizon will indemnify certain representatives against reasonable expenses, judgments, fines and amounts paid in settlement actually incurred by the representative in connection with a proceeding to which the indemnified person was a party because he or she was or is an authorized representative of Verizon.

Verizon's restated certificate of incorporation permits the advancement of expenses to an indemnified party, subject to Verizon's right to recover the advanced amount under certain circumstances.

Verizon maintains liability insurance for the benefit of the directors and officers against certain liabilities which might be incurred by them in these capacities and against which they cannot be indemnified by Verizon. See also the undertakings set out in response to Item 22.

(C) To include any material information with respect to the plan of distribution not previously disclosed in the registration statement or any material change to such information in the registration statement;

(2) That, for the purpose of determining any liability under the Securities Act of 1933, each such post-effective amendment shall be deemed to be a new registration statement relating to the securities offered therein, and the offering of such securities at that time shall be deemed to be the initial bona fide offering thereof; and

(3) To remove from registration by means of a post-effective amendment any of the securities being registered which remain unsold at the termination of the offering.

(b) The undersigned registrant hereby undertakes that, for purposes of determining any liability under the Securities Act of 1933, each filing of the registrant's annual report pursuant to Section 13(a) or 15(d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (and, where applicable, each filing of an employee benefit plan's annual report pursuant to Section 15(d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934) that is incorporated by reference in the registration statement shall be deemed to be a new registration statement relating to the securities offered therein, and the offering of such securities at that time shall be deemed to be the initial bona fide offering thereof.

(c) Insofar as indemnification for liabilities arising under the Securities Act of 1933 may be permitted to directors, officers and controlling persons of the registrant pursuant to the foregoing provisions, or otherwise, the registrant has been advised that in the opinion of the SEC such indemnification is against public policy as expressed in the Act and is, therefore, unenforceable. In the event that a claim for indemnification against such liabilities (other than the payment by the registrant of expenses incurred or paid by a director, officer or controlling person of the registrant in the successful defense of any action, suit or proceeding) is asserted by such director, officer or controlling person in connection with the securities being registered, the registrant will, unless in the opinion of its counsel the matter has been settled by controlling precedent, submit to a court of appropriate jurisdiction the question whether such indemnification by it is against public policy as expressed in the Act and will be governed by the final adjudication of such issue.

(d) The undersigned registrant hereby undertakes to respond to requests for information that is incorporated by reference into the prospectus pursuant to Items 4, 10(b), 11 or 13 of this form, within one business day of receipt of such request, and to send the incorporated documents by first class mail or other equally prompt means. This includes information contained in documents filed subsequent to the effective date of the registration statement through the date of responding to the request.

(e) The undersigned registrant hereby undertakes to supply by means of a post-effective amendment all information concerning a transaction, and the company being acquired involved therein, that was not the subject of and included in the registration statement when it became effective.

(f) The undersigned registrant hereby undertakes that, for purposes of determining any liability under the Securities Act of 1933, each filing of the registrant's annual report pursuant to Section 13(a) or 15(d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 that is incorporated by reference in this registration statement shall be deemed to be a new registration statement relating to the securities offered herein, and the offering of such securities at that time shall be deemed to be the initial bona fide offering thereof.
