ABN AMRO and Barclays Proposed Merger - Message from Frits Seegers

Dear Colleague

I hope by now you have all seen the details of our proposed merger with ABN AMRO. For our customers, our shareholders and for you, this would be a merger with enormous opportunities to generate value.

If successful, the merger of Barclays and ABN AMRO would not only accelerate our strategy and catapult Barclays into the top 5 banks, but would position us as a leading force in global retail and commercial banking. The combined business has greater capacity to deliver value short term, than either business by itself.

What does this mean for GRCB?

With a presence in 64 countries, we would be a major force. For everybody in GRCB this deal would create significant opportunities and the fit is highly complementary, including:

World class products distributed through a much bigger network, from 27m customers to 47m

Leading positions in the UK, Netherlands, Italy and Iberia

Significant exposure to high growth markets eg Brazil, India, Taiwan and Indonesia as well as South Africa, in addition to a strong presence in emerging markets including Pakistan and Saudi Arabia and in cards in the United Arab Emirates

Edgar Filing: BARCLAYS PLC - Form 425

World class capability in cards, global payments and cash management including a top five card issuer outside the US

Positioned to harness trade flows in an increasingly global business environment eg between China and South Africa, Brazil and Iberia
In short, the combination of ABN AMRO and Barclays would bring together two highly complementary geographical footprints, including new high-growth emerging markets such as Brazil and China and ABN AMRO's fast growing Asian businesses. These clearly complement Barclays strong presence in the emerging markets including Egypt and Sub Saharan Africa.

As you may know, ABN AMRO has great strength in transactional banking and a world-leading global trading platform, which we will be able to harness to serve our commercial banking customers in more markets. Cost synergies are expected to result from the consolidation of the retail and commercial banking activities into a universal banking model.

Approximately 90% of the combined group's branches would be in seven key markets. In Europe, the combined group would have leading franchises in the UK and the Netherlands and attractive positions in the Italian, Spanish and Portuguese markets.

The size and scale of the opportunities that these markets would offer, means that I would be joined on the Group Executive Committee by two further GRCB colleagues, from ABN AMRO, who would report to me:

Piero Overmars, CEO of Continental Europe and Asia

Ron Teerlink as Chief Operating Officer

Next steps

Please be assured that I will make more information available as soon as I can and will keep you updated via the GRCB homepage and the site set up specifically for Barclays ABN information Group Intranet Barclays/ABN AMRO Information Site accessed from the home page of the Group Intranet (or via banners on UK intranets).

In terms of timescales, there is still a long way to go, but the proposed merger is expected to be completed by the year end.

In the meantime, we must continue to earn, invest and grow the business we have a great deal to do. We must all focus on business as usual and ensure that we continue to deliver business excellence for both our customers and our shareholders in order to meet and, where possible, exceed our targets.

Finally, I would like to say a huge thank you to everyone who has contributed to this first stage of the deal. A massive amount of work and some very long hours have already been devoted to this, and we have a lot more to do in order to close the deal and start the integration of the two organisations.

I look forward to our next steps together and, with your support, to building the best retail and commercial bank in the world.

Thank you

Frits
