Publix Super Markets, Inc. (Publix or the Company) hereby files this Form 12b-25 in order to obtain an automatic 15 day extension for the filing of its Annual Report on Form 10-K for the year ended December 27, 2008. The due date for the filing based on the Company s year end is February 25, 2009. The Company plans to file its Annual Report on February 27, 2009.

The Company is a privately-held company that serves as its own stock registrar and transfer agent. Its stock price is determined quarterly by the Board of Directors. The price the Company pays to repurchase its stock is based on its most recently announced stock price. The Company s stock price is announced quarterly after the close of business on the day before the effective date. The fourth quarter, or year end, stock price is effective on March 1, which results in a stock price announcement on February 28 (or 29 in a leap year) depending on the timing of weekends.

Since the Company allows its stockholders to sell stock on any business day, the timing of the announcement of financial results is critical. The announcement by the Company of its financial results must occur concurrent with or after the announcement of the year end stock price. If the Form 10-K is filed before the announcement of the new stock price, stockholders could engage in market timing by accelerating or delaying redemptions of their Publix stock based on the financial results and the anticipated impact on the upcoming stock price.

The Company s stock price announcement and effective date process has been in place for many years and is well understood by its stockholders. The stock price process is also an integral part of the Company s 401(k) plan. In addition, many of the Company s stockholders only own Publix stock, so they are not impacted by the more typical daily stock price changes of other publicly traded companies. Changing the Company s stock price announcement and effective dates for even one or a few days due to the earlier Form 10-K deadline could have negative consequences for a sizable number of the Company s stockholders and eligible stockholders (the Participants). For example, the Participants could miss the opportunity to execute a transaction or have the cost of the transaction change. The Company estimates the number of affected Participants at 200,000 with that number growing annually.

Publix is in the unique position of having to file reports with the SEC as if it is publicly traded while also taking into consideration the needs and best interests of its stockholders (since Publix makes its own market for Publix stock as a privately held company). It is the Company s position that filing this extension is in the best interest of the affected stockholders.
