Employee Questions Honeywell Acquisition of Intermec

January 25, 2013

The following are answers to questions that Intermec employees have submitted over the past few weeks relating to the proposed Intermec and Honeywell merger.

In considering the questions and answers presented below, I'd ask you to note a couple of things. First, we aren't able to address here questions involving matters that are the subject of litigation that has been filed in connection with the transaction. Second, we are also limited in our ability to address how the acquisition may affect particular aspects of our current business. Until the transaction closes, we are separate companies and must continue to compete vigorously. It would be very speculative on our part to predict how things may change after the transaction closes.

We will continue to work hard to keep you all as informed as possible. Thank you for your patience and understanding.

Marcy Montgomery

Intermec Integration Lead

HR/Benefits

Will Intermec employees that are retained by Honeywell keep their years of service?

Our agreement with Honeywell generally provides that Intermec employees will keep their years of service for purposes of determining eligibility to participate in Honeywell's benefit plans and programs, as well as vacation, sick leave and other paid time off benefits, and for purposes of paying, providing or satisfying when due such paid time off benefits. The agreement also provides that the amount of severance will be grandfathered for 12 months after closing. We will provide more specific guidance on precisely what this means as we proceed with integration planning and implementation.

What will be the impact on employee pay and benefits?

In the merger agreement, Honeywell has agreed to provide compensation, incentive opportunity and benefits at least through the end of 2013 that in the aggregate are not less than you have today. Intermec will proceed with a merit increase process in 2013 and additional information on this will be provided as we get closer to our regular performance review period.

Complete provisions of Intermec benefit plans are in the legal plan documents, which govern the operation and administration of the Plans. In all cases, the official Plan documents are the exclusive sources for determining rights under the Plans.

What will happen to my 401(k)? Will the company continue to provide a matching contribution?

There will be no changes to the 401(k) Plan design before the closing. Honeywell has agreed to provide compensation, incentive opportunity and benefits at least through the end of 2013 that in the aggregate are not less than you have today.

Do our shares in Intermec get bought out or will they be exchanged for equivalent Honeywell shares?

The proposed transaction is a cash merger in which all outstanding Intermec shares will be converted into cash at $10 per share. No shares will be exchanged.

What will happen to my frozen U.S. Intermec Pension Plan (IPP) benefit?

Your U.S. pension benefits under the IPP are subject to Federal law, including ERISA and are held in trust. The Honeywell acquisition will not change this arrangement. All accrued benefits under the IPP are fully vested so the acquisition should not change your IPP benefits.

What will happen to my benefit under the Deferred Compensation Plan, Supplemental Executive Retirement Plan and Restoration Plan?

Our agreement with Honeywell provides that each of these nonqualified deferred compensation plans will be terminated, effective upon closing, and all benefits will be distributed in a lump sum in cash. If you are one of the limited number of US current or former employees who have a benefit under one of these plans, you will be provided with specific information about the amounts and timing of distributions approximately 30 days after closing. Participants in the Deferred Compensation Plan can access information about the current value of their account balance by logging into the Fidelity website.

What will happen to employee stock options and RSUs?

If your stock options are in the money, the options will be fully vested and any gains will be paid in cash in conjunction with the closing. Any options with strike prices above the purchase price will be canceled. RSUs will be fully vested and paid out in cash in conjunction with the closing.

What will happen to the ESPP?

The Employee Stock Purchase Plan's (ESPP) last offering period ended 12/31/2012. In conjunction with the closing the ESPP will be terminated and all shares you own will be cashed out and the proceeds will be distributed to you without the benefit of the holding period.

General Business

How long after the close will it take to be fully integrated with Honeywell?

At this point it is impossible for us to predict the final date in which we will be fully integrated. We are in the process of forming integration teams. The integration timeline will be clarified as these teams move forward with integration planning.

Complete provisions of Intermec benefit plans are in the legal plan documents, which govern the operation and administration of the Plans. In all cases, the official Plan documents are the exclusive sources for determining rights under the Plans.

Lawsuits have been filed on behalf of investors. Is this normal? How will it affect the transaction?

We aren't able to comment on current litigation except to say that mergers and acquisitions transactions involving public companies are frequently the subject of shareholder lawsuits, and we will defend ourselves vigorously.

Does the Intermec board have to entertain any other offers from other entities that may have offered more than Honeywell?

Our board has fiduciary duties that may require it to entertain other offers if any are made between signing and closing of the transaction. At the same time, we are also obligated, under our Agreement and Plan of Merger, to take certain actions in the event a superior offer is made. These terms are, in part, the subject of the ongoing shareholder litigation so we aren't able to comment further at this time.

Operations

What will the merger mean for the facility in Everett?

The facility in Everett is under lease until the end of 2014 and that lease will transfer to Honeywell. No decisions have been made regarding the facility beyond 2014.

How does this announcement affect the CR R&D facility now under construction?

We are contractually committed to finishing the construction of the facility in Cedar Rapids. Honeywell agreed to acquire Intermec subject to this commitment. So the acquisition by Honeywell does not directly affect the construction of the CR R&D facility. Construction of the CR facility is a long-term commitment that was and remains subject to the strategic and operational needs of our business.

Sales

We have a large partner in Psion. What do we tell them in the interim before the acquisition closes?

Pending closing, it's business as usual. We remain dedicated to continuing to meet the needs of our customers with the personal touch and availability that they have come to expect from us until now.

Is the sales/partner conference still scheduled for Feb. 3 in Dallas?

For a number of reasons, IPS has been rescheduled to April 21st - 25 in Dallas. Jim McDonnell will provide more information in the near future.
