Reorganization of the Financial Area

(Rio de Janeiro, September 1, 2006). PETRÓLEO BRASILEIRO S/A - PETROBRAS, [Bovespa: PETR3/PETR4, NYSE: PBR/PBRA, Latibex: XPBR/XPBRA, BCBA: APBR/APBRA], a Brazilian international energy company, announces that it has completed the reorganization of its financial area.

The objective of the new general structure of the Financial Area is to integrate and bolster the Petrobras corporate activities, thereby improving the performance, control and sustainability of the Company's growth. The underlying rationale for the reorganization relates to the following aspects:

- a. growth perspectives incorporated in the Business Plan 2007-2011 that anticipate an annual increase of over 7.5% in output of oil, LNG and natural gas and a 68% increase in crude throughput over current refining levels by 2015, and investments of US$ 87.1 billion in the period.
- b. the improvement of the Internal Controls System for meeting the requirements of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act which establishes specific responsibilities for the President and Chief Financial Officer, including the certification of the Company's financial statements;
- c. the adjustment of the organizational structure to act as a holding company in the guidance and coordination of the financial function of the companies within the Petrobras Group;
- d. organizational improvements, correcting overlapping functions, allocating responsibilities and correcting shortcomings in the Financial Area's operations;
- e. increasing the employment of the process management model adopted by the Company, eliminating dispersion in the execution of processes in the financial, accounting and fiscal areas and facilitating the monitoring, control and reduction in costs to the Company;
- f. adjustment to the perspectives for the Company's financial results;
- g. better structuring of the internal management of the area and the implementation of improvements;

The approved general structure with six executive departments has the following functions:

Corporate Financial Department Executive Manager: Daniel Lima de Oliveira
To manage and execute the corporate activities of the Financial Area, including the coordination and certification of the internal controls and the financial and corporate alignment of the Petrobras Group;
