TEVA ANNOUNCES NOVARTIS' SANDOZ UNIT SEEKS TO DELAY FIRST FDA APPROVAL OF GENERIC ZOCOR®

Jerusalem, Israel, June 23, 2006 - Teva Pharmaceutical Industries Ltd. (Nasdaq: TEVA) announced today that Novartis' generic unit, Sandoz, Inc., has filed a complaint in the United States District Court for the District of Columbia, seeking approval of its generic Zocor® products in the face of an April 30, 2006 decision of the same Court.

The decision in April granted Teva's motion for summary judgment on the issue of whether its Abbreviated New Drug Application (ANDA) to market a generic version of Merck's Zocor® (Simvastatin) Tablets, 5, 10, 20, and 40 mgs is entitled to 180-day Hatch-Waxman statutory exclusivity. The Court found unlawful the FDA's October 24, 2005 decision denying a citizen's petition on the exclusivity issue and, accordingly, remanded the matter back to the FDA, which has since appealed to the United States Court of Appeals.

Teva is eligible to receive final approval for the 5 mg, 10 mg, 20 mg, and 40 mg strengths with exclusivity on June 23, 2006, when the product patent expires.

Sandoz has asked the Court to order the FDA not to approve Teva's generic Zocor® products pending a determination of its motion for a preliminary injunction ordering the FDA to approve Sandoz's ANDA. A hearing has been scheduled for this morning at 10:00 am EDT.
