5.20- Financial Instruments Derivatives

Volatility of interest rates, exchange rates and commodity prices are the main market risks to which the Company is exposed and all three are managed through derivative operations. These have the exclusive aim of reducing exposure to risk, not being used speculative purposes.

The Company monitors and evaluates the derivative positions on a regular basis and adjust its strategy in response to market conditions. Periodically the credit limits and credit worthiness of our counter-parties in these transactions are reviewed. In view of the policies and practices established for operations with derivatives, management considers the occurrence of non-measurable risk situations as unlikely.

The asset (liability) balances and the change in fair value of derivative financial instruments are as follows (not reviewed by independent auditors):

9- Management's Discussion and Analysis of the Operating Results for the Period Ended June 30, 2007

As a result of the analysis some general aspects must be considered, as follows:

On June 30, 2007 about 94% of the consolidated gross revenue and 51% of consolidated total cost are linked to the U.S. dollar. Consequently, fluctuations in the exchange rate variation between the two currencies have a significant impact on the operating results.

Approximately 73% of consolidated short-term and long-term loans on June 30, 2007 are denominated in U.S. dollars.

As a result, exchange rate fluctuations have a significant impact on the financial expenses and income.

The average dollar rate fell 6.7% between periods (R$2.0452 on June 30, 2007 against R$2.1927 on June 30, 2006), partially offset by price increases, and exchange rate between of the periods fell 11.0% (R$1.9262 on June 30, 2007 against R$2.1643 on June 30, 2006).

In 2007, iron ore prices increased by 9.5% and pellets prices increased by 5.3%.

The 18,8% increase in gross revenue (R$10,397,790 on June 30, 2007 against R$8,752,856 on June 30, 2006) is the result of the 10% increase in sales of iron ore and also for the increase of prices. This effect, over the company's revenue, was compensated in part by the 6% average appreciation of the real against the U. S. dollar.

9.2.2- Cost of products and services

Cost of products and services sold to June 30, 2007 was R$5,702,136 on 06/30/07 against R$4,882,884 on June 30, 2006 representing a 17% increase. This effect is substantially compensated with the exchange loss in the investments abroad.
