Citizens Communications Named to “Forbes Platinum 400”
*Company named one of America’s 400 Best Big Businesses

Stamford, Conn., Jan. 12, 2007 - Citizens Communications Company (NYSE: CZN), the parent company of Frontier Communications, has been included as one of the “400 Best Big Companies in America” by Forbes. The magazine annually selects the best of the biggest publicly-traded companies in America, across 26 industry groups, for its Platinum 400 list. The selection process includes a thorough review of financial metrics, Wall Street forecasts, corporate governance ratings, and other public information. The list appears in the Jan. 8, 2007 issue of Forbes and can be found on <http://www.forbes.com/lists>.

According to Forbes, more than 1,000 corporations with $1 billion or more in revenues were screened in a selection process that included metrics such as latest 12-month and five-year stock market returns, sales and earnings-per-share growth and debt-to-capital ratios. Forbes used Thomson IBES consensus forecasts for long-term earnings growth; accounting and governance scores came from Audit Integrity of New York and Los Angeles.

"We are very pleased by the inclusion of our company in this exclusive list," said Maggie Wilderotter, Chairman and CEO. "The acknowledgement is especially important because it encompasses accounting and governance scores. Forbes' inclusion of Citizens proves that our focus on how we do business is vitally important to bottom-line results."
