"Safe Harbor" Statement under the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995: The statements contained in this report on Form 8-K are "forward-looking statements" intended to qualify for the safe harbor from liability established by the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995. These forward-looking statements are subject to certain risks and uncertainties that could cause actual results to differ materially from those in forward-looking statements.

We urge you to carefully consider the following important factors that could cause actual results to differ materially from the expectations of the company or its management:

- Market demand for semiconductors, particularly for digital signal processors and analog chips in key markets, such as telecommunications and computers;
- TI's ability to develop, manufacture and market innovative products in a rapidly changing technological environment;
- TI's ability to compete in products and prices in an intensely competitive industry;
- TI's ability to maintain and enforce a strong intellectual property portfolio and obtain needed licenses from third parties;
- Timely completion and successful integration of announced acquisitions;
- Economic, social and political conditions in the countries in which TI and its customers and suppliers operate, including security risks, possible disruptions in transportation networks and fluctuations in foreign currency exchange rates;
- Losses or curtailments of purchases from key customers or the timing of customer inventory adjustments;
- TI's ability to recruit and retain skilled personnel; and
- Availability of raw materials and critical manufacturing equipment.

For a more detailed discussion of these and other factors, see the text under the heading "Cautionary Statements Regarding Future Results of Operations" in Item 1 of TI's most recent Form 10-K. The forward-looking statements included in this Form 8-K are made only as of the date of this Form 8-K and TI undertakes no obligation to update the forward-looking statements to reflect subsequent events or circumstances.

TI SEES IMPROVEMENT IN FOURTH-QUARTER EXPECTATIONS

DALLAS (Dec. 2, 2002) - Texas Instruments Incorporated (NYSE:TXN) said today that the company expects revenue for the fourth quarter of 2002 to be better than previously estimated.

TI's Semiconductor revenue is now expected to decline about 2 percent sequentially, instead of the 5 percent originally noted in the company's earnings report on October 21. Total TI revenue is now expected to be down about 7 percent instead of 10 percent, mostly reflecting the seasonal drop in calculator shipments. Earnings per share also should be better than expected, at about $0.03 pro forma and $0.01 GAAP, plus or minus a few cents.

"The improvement in fourth-quarter expectations comes primarily from stronger demand for our wireless and high-performance analog products," said Chief Financial Officer Bill Aylesworth.

Aylesworth will discuss TI's outlook and business strategies to address key markets for its Digital Signal Processing (DSP) and Analog technologies at the Credit Suisse First Boston Annual Technology Conference in Scottsdale, Ariz., on Tuesday, December 3. His comments can be heard live at 2:30 p.m. Mountain Standard Time via audio webcast at <http://www.ti.com/ir>. Archived replays are available for one week.

"Safe Harbor" Statement under the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995: This release includes "forward-looking statements" intended to qualify for the safe harbor from liability established by the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995. These forward-looking statements generally can be identified by phrases such as TI or its management "believes," "expects," "anticipates," "foresees," "forecasts," "estimates" or other words or phrases of similar import. Similarly, such statements herein that describe the company's business strategy, outlook, objectives, plans, intentions or goals also are forward-looking statements. All such forward-looking statements are subject to certain risks and uncertainties that could cause actual results to differ materially from those in forward-looking statements.

We urge you to carefully consider the following important factors that could cause actual results to differ materially from the expectations of the company or its management:

Edgar Filing: TEXAS INSTRUMENTS INC - Form 8-K

- Market demand for semiconductors, particularly for digital signal processors and analog chips in key markets, such as telecommunications and computers;
- TI's ability to develop, manufacture and market innovative products in a rapidly changing technological environment, including timely implementation of new manufacturing technologies;
- TI's ability to compete in products and prices in an intensely competitive industry;
- TI's ability to maintain and enforce a strong intellectual property portfolio and obtain needed licenses from third parties;
- Consolidation of TI's patent licensees and market conditions reducing royalty payments to TI;
- Timely completion and successful integration of announced acquisitions;
- Economic, social and political conditions in the countries in which TI, its customers or its suppliers operate, including security risks, possible disruptions in transportation networks and fluctuations in foreign currency exchange rates;
- Losses or curtailments of purchases from key customers or the timing of customer inventory adjustments;
- TI's ability to recruit and retain skilled personnel; and
- Availability of raw materials and critical manufacturing equipment.

For a more detailed discussion of these factors, see the text under the heading "Cautionary Statements Regarding Future Results of Operations" in Item 1 of the company's most recent Form 10-K. The forward-looking statements included in this release are made only as of the date of this release, and the company undertakes no obligation to update the forward-looking statements to reflect subsequent events or circumstances.
